

Description

The B-6 short sheared sheepskin flight jacket was first introduced in 1939 and used extensively in the Army Air Force training command when pilots flew open cockpit training planes but needed a lightweight jacket for ease of movement. Light enough to wear with a sweater and other layering pieces; it is an incredibly contemporary piece of clothing designed by artisans years ago but an easy piece for the field or street. Please note that the shearling is tanned to "antique" as you wear it, giving "high and lows" in the color so it looks as if you had this jacket since WWII. This will not affect the durability of this product. Sheepskin varies from production to production but you'll always receive the same craftsmanship and warmth.

- Short sheared sheepskin
- Leather welted seams
- Double buckle throat latch
- Epaulets
- Bi-swing back
- Army Air Force Wing and Star on the left arm
- Side entry hand warmer pockets
- Interior pocket
- Side zips at the hips
- This is a regular fit jacket
- Available in antique brown
- Proudly made in the USA

Color

Brown

Size

36	46
38	48
40	50
42	52
44

THE SUPPLY ROOM
230 Supply Room Rd, Oxford, AL 36203