USAF Campaign Streamers

Campaign Streamers are embroidered with the name and years of the campaign. Combat credit entitles the organization to the appropriate campaign Streamers. Campaign Streamers are Size 2, (2 3/4” X 3’) except those identified by note 4 on MIL-DTL-14650/4J. These require the four feet length to accommodate the required embroidery.

Unit Decoration Streamers

Unit Decoration Streamers represent the unit’s decorations. A few examples are, Air Force Outstanding Unit Award, Air Force Organizational Excellence Award, Presidential Unit Citation, Meritorious Unit Commendation.

USAF War Service Streamers

Service Streamers represent the unit’s service in the same manner that service medals represent the individual’s participation in a theater of combat operations. They represent noncombat service in the various theaters of military operations and have no embroidery.
Streamers are used on flags representing the entire service (Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and Air Force), as well as flags representing units of battalion size and larger. Attached to military flags, streamers are decorations awarded in recognition of certain achievements and/or events of a military unit or service. Streamers are displayed below the spearhead, attached to a streamer set attachment.

*A complete set of streamers is displayed on the Air Force Ceremonial flag.

Background

It wasn’t until 1920 that Streamers were introduced as a way to depict and show honor for achievements in battle. Prior to this, the military had several methods, all leading up to the innovation of embroidered silk streamers. The first depiction of battle honors began in 1861, when Major General John C. Fremont honored troops that fought in the battle of Wilson’s Creek by ordering the word “Springfield” to be depicted on the colors of the units involved in the battle. After several years, the inscribed battle honors on the flags were discontinued and silver bands were introduced. The use of silver bands continued on until 1918, when there began to be a short supply. The War Department then authorized inscribed ribbon strips as a substitute; these ribbon strips were the early beginnings of our present day streamers.

Facts & Regulations

Streamers are used on flags representing the entire service (Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and Air Force), as well as flags representing units of battalion size and larger.

Attached to military flags, streamers are decorations awarded in recognition of certain achievements and/or events of a military unit or service.
